

Berkeley Journal of African-American Law & Policy

March 30, 2009

Announcing the Berkeley Prize In Legal Scholarship
Call for papers by law students on topics relevant to African-Americans and minority communities

The Berkeley Journal of African-American Law & Policy (BJALP) is pleased to announce its second annual Berkeley Prize In Legal Scholarship – open to all law students at ABA-accredited law schools.

The Berkeley Journal of African-American Law & Policy is a vital publication addressing legal and policy issues that predominantly affect African-American communities. As one of only three such law journals in the nation, BJALP plays a crucial part in UC Berkeley's role as an institution at the vanguard of legal theory and public policy.

BJALP seeks papers written by law students on topics relevant to African-Americans and minority communities. The Berkeley Prize in Legal Scholarship will be awarded to the law student whose paper is selected for publication in Volume XII (2009-2010) of BJALP. The prize will include a $1,000 award.

To apply:

- E-mail your submission to bjalp\_submissions@law.berkeley.edu indicating that you are applying for the Berkeley Prize in Legal Scholarship
- Include a completed draft, resume/CV, and cover letter
- Papers should be between 30 and 50 pages (double-spaced including footnotes)
- Deadline: July 31, 2009

For more information:

- Call our journal office at (510) 642-0423
- E-mail us at bjalp\_submissions@law.berkeley.edu
- Check www.bjalp.org for any updates

Berkeley Journal of African-American Law & Policy